

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A three-dimensional image displaying device includes a front display unit and a rear display unit. The front display unit includes at least one transparent display screen. The display screen includes a plurality of organic electroluminescent elements. A spacer is provided between the front and rear display units.